Bohemian Stroud

Cloth, commons and canals...

Brimming with independent shops, cafés and galleries, bohemian Stroud has been described by Jasper Conran as 'the Covent Garden of the Cotswolds' thanks to its fabulous farmers' market. You will find an eclectic mix of shops against the dramatic backdrop of the beautiful Five Valleys, selling everything from vintage to vinyl and fossils to fairies.

The Cotswold Way runs through Stroud and Rodborough, Minchinhampton and Selsley Commons overlook the town - popular with walkers, kite-flyers and those looking for a locally-made Winstones ice-cream.

Writers and artists have been drawn to the five valleys encircling the town. The Slad Valley's most famous resident was Laurie Lee, author of "Cider with Rosie". A varied programme of festivals throughout the year includes textiles, music and contemporary art.

Stroud is most often characterised by its industrial heritage. Some of the former textile mills, strung along the valleys, occasionally open to visitors. Stroud's history can be discovered today through the Heritage Board Map Trail.

Restoration of the Stroudwater Canal is currently underway to return it to its former glory. Enjoy a walk along the tow path and drop into the Canal Visitor Centre located at Wallbridge Lock to find out more.

Walking in or around Stroud:
Short walks – all of these routes are available to download or from Stroud Visitor Information Centre

Historical Trail approx 1 mile - A series of information boards tell Stroud's history with some charming tales of local events and characters. This circular route starts in St Laurence churchyard, home to the last duel ever fought on British soil.

Stroud Centre to Stratford Park approx 2.5 miles – This circular route leaves the town and heads to the 56 acres of Stratford Park. The arboretum and lake make it the ideal location for a picnic. The park also includes a leisure centre, children's play area and an excellent museum.

Cloth, Coal & Canals approx 3.5 miles - This walk, in association with the Royal Geographical Society, follows the canal towpath from Stroud to Stonehouse, telling the history of the Stroud Valley. Mills, locks, bridges, wildlife and beautiful scenery dot the route. Return to Stroud by foot, bus or train. Available as a booklet or audio or downloadable format.

Rodborough & Kingscourt approx 3.7 miles – A circular walk from the centre of Stroud taking in small villages, open hill tops with lovely views and former mill buildings. Available to download.

Whiteshill to Haresfield Beacon approx 3.1 or 4.8 miles – This circular walk from The Star Inn (about 10 minutes by bus from Stroud) follows the Cotswold Way to Haresfield Beacon. The beacon is often rated as one of the outstanding highlights on the Cotswold Way and views extend to the Severn Estuary, Brecon Beacons and beyond. Available to download

Commons & Canals: The Selsley Circuit approx 5 miles – Begin from King's Stanley (approx 15 minutes by bus from Stroud) and wind along the Cotswold Way, through sheltered beech woodlands and rich open grassland. Grand Victorian mills sit alongside the tranquil waterway. Available to download Brimcombe, Golden Valley and Thames & Severn Canal approx 7.4 miles - The Golden Valley of the River Frome was named from the wealth that came from the textile industry. This circular walk (about 15 minutes by bus from Stroud) includes woodland, pools and streams, industrial heritage and the towpath of the Thames & Severn Canal. It is close to Westley Farm Cottages. Available to download

The W.A.S Way approx 11 miles – A circular route following public footpaths around the entire boundary of Stroud. It offers fantastic views from each of the five valleys and explores many quiet, hidden corners of the town. Available to download
